Coronavirus Politics -Scott L Greer 2021-04-19 COVID-19 is the most significant global crisis of any of our lifetimes. The numbers have been stupendous, whether of infection and mortality, the scale of public health measures, or the economic consequences of shutdown. Coronavirus Politics identifies key threats in the global context and shape debates about what it means for scholarship in health and comparative politics. Editors Scott L Greer, Elizabeth J. King, Elize Mussa da Fonseca, and André Penha-Santos bring together over 30 authors versed in politics and the health issues in order to understand the health policy decisions, the public health interventions, their interactions, and the reasons. The book’s coverage is global, with a wide range of key and exemplar countries, and contains a mixture of comparative, thematic, and templated country studies. All go beyond reporting and monitoring to develop explanations that draw on the authors’ expertise while engaging in structured conversations across the book.

Portugal’s Political Development-Walter C Opello Jr 2019-07-22 Portugal’s early developmental experience created a highly centralized administrative state that continues to have a powerful influence on the nature and style of the country’s government and politics. Emphasizing this theme, Dr. Opello shows that, contrary to the conclusions of scholars who have analyzed Portugal from Latin American or Third World perspectives, Portuguese political development is more comparable to the patterns of development of Western European countries, especially France. He compares Portugal’s political experience with that of other West European countries and concludes by specifying about the future of Portugal’s fledgling democracy.
