The Writings of Hesba Stretton
Elaine Lomax 2016-12-05
Highly respected as a writer by critics and commentators, Hesba Stretton (1832-1911) was a vigorous campaigner for the rights of oppressed minorities and a founding member of the London Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Though she is known today primarily as a writer of evangelical fiction... for young people, including Jessica's First Prayer, this characterization fails to acknowledge the extensive range of her writings and social activism. Elaine Lomax re-examines Stretton's writing for children and adults, situating her body of work within the broad social and cultural context of its production to expose the depth and complexity of Stretton's engagement with contemporary ideas, debates, and discourses. Mining nineteenth-century periodicals, archival materials, and the minutes of the Religious Tract Society, as well as Stretton's own revealing log books, Lomax demonstrates Stretton's preoccupation with those at the bottom or on the margins of society. At the same time, she advances our understanding of the intersection of cultural and literary representations of the child and childhood with wider images of the colonized or excluded, and our knowledge of the history and development of juvenile literature and women's writing.

Gus Gets Out - Molly Sparhawk 2017-05-12 Gus is a very curious indoor cat that just wants a taste of the outdoors. He finds out in this story that he may be in for more than he bargained for. This story was inspired by the antics of our very own cat who was able to sneak outside on more than one occasion. It was born when our children would ask if he was okay, and if he would return. We often talked about the fun adventures he was probably having, but it also provided the opportunity to talk about loss at the child's pace. This wonderfully illustrated book follows Gus in his adventure. This book is great for kid's imaginations and can be a good tool to help cope with a lost pet.

They are known as the Black Riders, but no one knows where they come from or why they seem bent on exterminating every man, woman and child. Talsy traps the Mujar with gold, which has an odd effect on them, to make him help her, but her father intends to throw him in a Pit, from which he will be unable to escape. Talsy does not believe the Mujar deserves such a fate, so she frees him and begs him to take her with him on his journey. He agrees, and they set off across Shamarese, continuing his quest to find an old hermit's lost son.
